Balance And Flow

Nowhere is the inspiration of nature masterpieces more well reflected than in the architectural focus of D'lesser Residences. Vertical fins make up the main design element. Small, unobtrusive fins introduce a visual hierarchy that breaks the monotony of the building and adds depth to the exterior of the building. The form of the fins also provide a visual focus leading to the public square, and the natural stone cliff and waterfall behind the building. Attentive choices in design, material and layout create harmony between man-made and nature-made, where modern co-exists seamlessly with celebration of nature.

Rhythms in Nature

Mosaics are masterpieces of a collective. They offer a breathtaking view of multiple single units - a tesserae - coming together to form a work of art. Each tile, mosaicscript on its own, but summing in the whole canvas. D' Towers Residences draws from those notions of repetition, rhythm and patterns. A space made up of different individual elements united in a carefully constructed flow to create a complete picture of living well at its base.

Heartbeat of the Valley

The integrated vibrancy of Central Park, Gurgaon in North India's Sohna Valley, is the most vibrant instance of living well. As one of the cornerstone of this development, D' Towers Residences is surrounded by a plethora of amenities and facilities, including a vast basement plaza park area in landscaped. A private square with the capital of traditional heritage, ancient building the surrounding together through a lively, small resort mall. The area is also connected by major highways and expressways to major cities and major metropolitan areas, and a robust series of public transportation, which make commuting easier and offer access to every zone.

Nourished by Nature

The linear park hugging one side of D'Tessera Residences forms an important interconnecting element between the residences and the natural environment. The canopy created by the vertical greenery and rock cliffs breathes life into the living spaces within. Elements of nature are present in every nook, carefully wove into the built environment - from decorative elements to choice of materials, everything breathes another nature. Whether at work, rest or play, residents will relish a nourishing connection with the natural world.

Rhythmic, calm and restorative, D'Tessera Residences connects living to the refreshing form of nature, in a serene cocoon that breathes new life into living spaces.
